

Nixon, Brown Win California Nominations

By MORRIS LANDSBERG

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—California's primary cleared the political arena today for a bruising November battle between Republican Richard M. Nixon and Democratic Gov. Edmund G. Brown. Republicans rejected Assemblyman Joseph C. Shell's militant campaign and chose Nixon as their nominee for governor by a margin of about 7 to 3.

Democrats gave Brown a 7 to 1 vote of confidence over three little-known candidates. His showing, in an election with little to attract Democrats, almost equalled the combined Nixon-Shell total. Democratic registration outnumbered Republicans 4 to 3.

Results from Tuesday's balloting dealt a setback to Republican right-wingers who staged a well-financed drive to block Nixon's political comeback and to dump GOP Sen. Thomas H. Kuchel. Kuchel won a runaway victory in his party contest.

Three members of the John Birch Society won Republican nominations for Congress, however.

Nixon, at his Los Angeles headquarters, described Shell as a "good battler and expressed confidence the wealthy 43-year-old oilman would get behind him in the fall election."

But Shell, who campaigned as a conservative, held back any pledge of support except on his own terms—that Nixon embrace the principles he has espoused. He said Nixon has "a real salesman's job to convince some 500,000 conservatives in California that he is the man to become governor."

Nixon has promised to "beat Pat Brown to a pulp" and the Democratic governor has warned Democrats they're in for the fight of their lives. But Shell said a debate between the two nominees would be "a real pillow fight."

The vote from 11,477 of 31,212 precincts: Nixon—331,933, Shell 161,944.

Brown, who conceded a few months ago that his popularity had slipped, showed surprising strength in rolling up a heavy complimentary vote on the Democratic ticket.

The vote from 9,616 precincts: Brown 441,063, Alfred Hamilton 20,936; Phillip Moore 22,536; and John C. Stuart 22,798.

Kuchel, a protégé of former Gov. Earl Warren, easily defeated two ultra-conservatives who charged he was too pro-Democratic. He'll run once more against his 1956 Democratic foe, State Sen. Richard Richards of Los Angeles. Richards had only token opposition for the Democratic nomination.

All 16 Democratic and 14 Republican congressmen appeared assured of renomination. In addition, the voters picked party candidates for eight additional House seats which the state gained in the 1960 census.

Whitten Tells of Money and Job Offer as Gubernatorial Campaign Pace Speeds Up

Club Youths to Compete Here

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Arkansas gubernatorial politics moved at a fast tempo Tuesday. Vernon Whitten said he was offered money and a federal job to resign as a candidate. Gov. Orval E. Faubus drew the opposition of a church organization. Rep. Dale Alford, D-Ark., lashed out at centralized government on both the local and federal levels and former governor Sid McMath made a bid for teacher support with a letter.

Whitten declined to say who had made the offer, how much money or what the job offered was. He said he refused the offers without asking the nature of the job.

Speaking to a group of 30 women at a Little Rock hotel, Whitten said the state needs industry, but should not try to attract it by advertising itself as a source of cheap labor. Improvement of the political climate, he said, is the way to get more industry.

"And the way to do that is to change the administration, beginning with the governor's office," he said.

Faubus drew the opposition of the Christian Civic Foundation, a church organization which claims support of over 2,000 evangelical churches in Arkansas.

Dr. William E. Brown, director, announced the opposition of his group to Faubus' reelection to delegates to the North Arkansas Conference of the Methodist Church, being held in Conway. He criticized Faubus for not having answered a questionnaire the Foundation said is being mailed to all candidates, seeking their views on gambling and liquor.

Brown said of the questionnaire, "It was mailed to him at Huntsville, the address he gave at the time of filing. As he has been absent for eight years, he probably doesn't have a forwarding address."

Brown said, "We will do our best to send him back to Huntsville for the next two years." Faubus said he has not received the questionnaire and did not know that he would answer if he did.

McMath mailed a letter to 14,000 teachers informing them of his endorsement of an initiated act and proposed constitutional amendment backed by the Arkansas Education Association. The initiated act would allot 50 per cent of state revenues to the state education Department. The amendment is designed to guarantee stability of the Teacher Retirement System.

McMath also told the teachers they have displayed high faith in informed public opinion. Teachers, he said, "have shown great concern that public decisions shall be made with the knowledge of the truth as best it can be determined. It is on this basis that I am conducting my campaign for governor."

He said, "repeatedly in the past few years efforts have been made to stifle freedom of thought, inquiry and action through threats of political and economic reprisal."

The letter said last year expenditures per child for education in the state were $29 further behind the national average than 10 years ago and teachers' salaries were $613 behind. It also said the financial stability of the Teacher Retirement System has been jeopardized by manipulations of the governor.

Alford told the American Business Women's Association at Fort Smith that if federal encroachment on states rights continues, "the life that will be lived by our children will be completely unrecognizable from life our founding fathers envisioned."

He said centralization of government can occur at the local level as well as the federal. "Under this system of increased power, it is a natural, human trait to indulge in economic reprisals, political coercion, degeneration of our moral fiber and in the loss of integrity."

Alford said people are afraid of their leadership because they have reason to question the integrity of a few men who state they are for constitutional government, states rights, private enterprise and preservation of basic freedoms.

E. Germans Admit Food Shortages

BERLIN (AP)—The Communists publicly admitted today there are serious food shortages in East Germany.

The party newspaper Neues Deutschland called for multiplication of efforts to produce more milk and meat to overcome deficits in many districts on the state-planned goals.

The front-page admission of widespread failure to achieve targets, which are modest by Western standards, came as Communist bloc leaders met in Moscow for a summit conference on economic problems.

Neues Deutschland gave the example of the Karl Marx Stadt district, which had proposed supplying a half liter (1.1 pint) of milk per person a day, but had fulfilled only 8.8 per cent of this plan.

The districts of Erfurt, Halle, Magdeburg and Dresden — the country's big population centers — had similarly failed. The paper did not give figures in these cases. Meat production was less than planned in Frankfurt-on-Oder, Leipzig, Potsdam, Cottbus and Neubrandenburg.

This would come as no news to the housewives, who can be seen in long lines before food stores.

Capitol Flag to Fly on July 4

The annual July 4 celebration at Pioneer Washington will be held as usual, it was announced today by Executive Director Mrs. Georgia Haynes. The program will be announced later.

Mrs. Haynes today exhibited a flag just received from Mrs. Catherine D. Norrell, member of congress. The 50 by 90 inch flag was flown over the United States Capitol on May 30. It was presented to Rep. Norrell by J. George Stewart, architect of the Capitol of the U. S.

Mrs. Norrell, in turn, sent it on to Mrs. Haynes. The flag will fly for the first time over Washington at the July 4 celebration.

Draft Board Clerks Honored Here

Mrs. Gladine B. Morris, chief clerk, Local Board 29, Hope and Mrs. Bess V. Bryant, chief clerk, Local Board 50, Prescott, received certificates of appreciation and silver pins for their 20-years in the Selective Service System in Arkansas. The presentation was made at an Area Conference for local board clerks held Tuesday in the Hope City Hall courtroom.

Lt. Col. James T. Horner, Commander Melvin R. Everhart, and Maj. John T. Jean conducted the meeting attended by 14 clerks from Southwest Arkansas and Boyd Reese of Murfreesboro, selective service auditor.

Work Order Issued on Sewer Dist.

A contract has been let, and work order issued, in Sewer Improvement District No. 4, on the east side of town, the Commissioners for the district said today.

Work on the project will start Monday. John Hawkins is the engineer in charge, and District Commissioners are W. A. (Bill) Mudgett, Bob Turner, and Joe Hawkins. James H. Pilkinton is attorney for the district.

The work is being financed by a bond issue of some $87,000.00 and will be retired over a twenty-one year period.

The first assessment of benefits against the property benefited will be due on June 15, 1962, inasmuch as the first bonds start maturing in October 1962 of this year.

Dairy Month Statewide Observance

Arkansas Dairy Princess, Linda Jo Moran, of the Sullivan Community in Lonoke County and a delegation representing the Arkansas dairy industry met with Governor Orval E. Faubus to outline plans for June Dairy Month promotions. Miss Moran presented the Governor and his staff with bumper strips proclaiming, "I Drink Milk And I Eat Butter," and "Drink Arkansas Milk, The Protein Lift."

The Governor proclaimed June as "Dairy Month" in Arkansas and urged everyone in the state to drink more milk and eat more dairy products during June as a salute to the state's dairy farmers and the dairy industry in Arkansas makes a tremendous contribution to the health and well being of our people as well as making a major contribution to the state's economy.

Miss Moran told the Governor about the Arkansas Dairy Festival which will be held June 19-22 at Conway and outlined the many special events that will be held in Arkansas during June. Activities such as special civic club programs, county and regional Dairy Days, dairy princess contests, dairy recipe contests, special store promotions, and others. The state-wide climax will be the Dairy Festival Banquet to be held at Arkansas State Teachers College, Friday evening, June 22. At this time the 1962-63 Arkansas Dairy Princess will be selected and awards presented in the Dairy Recipe Cook-off.

The Festival is financed by the sale of $10.00 tickets to the banquet. The Governor bought tickets No. 1 and No. 2 and plans to join the many hundreds of people who will attend this banquet.

The Arkansas Dairy Festival is sponsored by the Arkansas Dairy Products Association; Central Arkansas Milk Producers Association; American Dairy Association of Arkansas; Arkansas Farm Bureau Federation; and the Conway Chamber of Commerce.

Urban Renewal Grant to U of A

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Urban Renewal Administration announced Tuesday a $17,000 grant to the University of Arkansas to help finance plans for the growth of Cabot, Osceola, Parkin and school students, and Roy Allison Warren. The URA said results of the work will be presented in the form of reports, maps and other graphics materials.

Officers Told to Be Ready to Win or Deter Conflict

By WHITNEY SHOEMAKER

WEST POINT, N.Y. (AP)—President Kennedy told West Point's 1962 class of brand new lieutenants today they have an unprecedented chance to serve the cause of national security and freedom.

Kennedy, addressing the U.S. Military Academy's festive and tradition-laden commencement, said graduates of all the service institutions within the next 10 years will encounter "greater opportunities for the defense of freedom than this academy's graduates ever had."

They may find themselves "heavily involved" in crises around the globe, Kennedy said. And they should consider themselves privileged to protect the interests of their country, he added.

In the flag-decked fieldhouse at this birthplace of the Army's corps of officers, Kennedy declared military men bear a responsibility to deter wars as well as to fight and win them.

But he added the basic problems pressing on the world can not be solved by military action. Kennedy warmed the hearts of at least 20 cadets by issuing orders to release them from detention. This sort of amnesty is traditional for visiting heads of state but Kennedy granted it as commander in chief of U.S. armed forces.

The crowd of cadets and proud parents who packed the fieldhouse cheered when Kennedy made the announcement. Kennedy had his own reward for attending the climax of another year at this citadel on the Hudson River. The class of 1962 made him an honorary member. He was the first chief executive to make the first commencement speaker accorded an honorary place in a West Point class.

The President personally shook the hand of the first 30 graduating cadets who came to the stand for their diplomas. The top man in the graduating class was Cadet John H. Fagan, 21, of Northampton, Mass., who received the first diploma.

Kennedy's stay at the Academy was brief. He arrived near 9:30 a.m. and left shortly before 11. Continued on Page Two

Lost Youth Drowns in Dierks Creek

DIERKS, Ark. (AP)—A 26-month old boy who wandered away from his home early Tuesday afternoon was found drowned today in a creek two miles north of his home.

Clyde Marshall Robert Moore said the body of Henry Lee Priddy was found at 7:45 a.m. today in Rock Creek.

Over 500 searchers scoured a five-mile wide, densely wooded area around Dierks.

State Trooper Jim Tom Young said Lee Priddy, father of the boy, was working on his car about 1 p.m. Tuesday while the boy played nearby. Then, Young said, Priddy, a mechanic, noticed the boy had disappeared.

Moore said the tracks of the barefoot boy were found in two places north of the home Tuesday, and the boy's dog was found returning home.

The Texarkana Civil Defense unit, several state troopers, Howard County Sheriff Jack Jennings, and other police officers aided in the search.

Churches Plan Joint Bible School

The Presbyterian and Christian Churches will hold a joint Bible School at the Presbyterian Church Monday through Friday, June 11-15, from 9 to 11 a.m. Classes will be held for ages ranging from preschool through junior high school. Workers will be under the supervision of the following: kindergarten, Mrs. Floyd Leverett and Mrs. Bill Tolleson; primary, Mrs. Odell Luck, Mrs. George Wright, Mrs. Fred McElroy; juniors, Dr. and Mrs. L. T. Lawrence; to the University of Arkansas to pioneers, Mrs. Neil Crank. The help finance plans for the growth of Cabot, Osceola, Parkin and school students, and Roy Allison Warren. The URA said results of the work will be presented in the form of reports, maps and other graphics materials.

Officers Told

a.m., flying back to Washington
from nearby Stewart Air Force Base. He was back at the White House by 12:10 p.m.

Kennedy told the newly commissioned officers that they must be qualified not only to fight and win wars but also to deter conflict. At the same time he asserted that "basic problems facing the world are not susceptible of a military solution."

In remarks prepared for the graduation of 601 cadets, the President said U.S. forces must perform more than military roles in their future assignments. He described these "as a complement to our diplomacy—as a deterrent to our adversaries—as a symbol of our Allies—as ambassadors of good will and good works around the globe."

Kennedy flew to West Point from Washington to address the academy's graduation exercises, thereby equalizing his attention to the nation's older service academies. He spoke last year to the Navy graduates in Annapolis.

The chief executive offered this counsel to the cadets:

"You will need to understand the importance of military power and also the limits of military power. It should be used to fight and when power—to decide when or they should be used to prevent a should be used to fight and when they should be used to prevent a fight—to determine what represents our vital interests and what is only marginal. Above all, you will have a responsibility to deter wars as well as to fight and win them."

Kennedy said the wide range of military responsibilities now required capacity for a wholly different kind of force, leadership and training. It is misleading, he declared, to call this "the nuclear age" or to contend that national security rests on a capacity for "massive retaliation."

Since World War II, Kennedy recalled, men have fought and died in Korea, Malaya, Greece,
the Philippines, Algeria, Cuba, Cyprus, and the Indo-Chinese peninsula.

In all those places, he said, they have waged war without massive weapons—war in which major forces were guerrillas, subversives, insurgents and assassins.

These have been battles in which victory was bought by "eroding and exhausting the enemy instead of engaging him," the President said.

Kennedy called this unconventional type of warfare uniquely adapted "to what are strangely called 'wars of liberation,'" the term used by Soviet Premier Khrushchev to justify Russian interference in the internal affairs of other nations.

Without mentioning Khrushchev or the Russians, Kennedy said the ultimate motive behind this eroding and exhausting form of warfare was to undermine efforts of newly emerging nations to achieve progress and freedom.

Beyond acquiring the ability to engage in the new aspects of combat, Kennedy said the freshly commissioned lieutenants must face equally pressing challenges in the field of diplomacy and economics.

"Whatever your position," Kennedy said, "the scope of your decisions will not be confined to the traditional tenets of military training and competence."

"There is no single slogan to guide the military," the President said. He recalled that Ernie Pyle, the World War II columnist searched in vain for a quick phrase to describe what U.S. soldiers were fighting for. Finally, Kennedy said Pyle concluded they at least were "fighting for each other."

Southern Nuclear Pact Bill Passes

WASHINGTON (AP) — A bill which would give Congress' concent for a group of 16 southern states to enter into an interstate nuclear compact passed the House Monday and was sent to the Senate for action. Arkansas is among states included in the compact which would create an Interstate Nuclear Board to promote and encourage the use of nuclear energy.

Tolls for the St. Lawrence Seaway are scaled to pay for the project in 50 years.

Practice of Jim Crowism by U. S. Reds

WASHINGTON (AP)—A former FBI informant said today the Communist party in Cleveland often raised money by telling members to have birthday parties, whether it was their birthday or not.

Mrs. Julia Brown, a Negro who said she reported on Communist doings to the FBI from 1948 until 1960, said these fund raising parties sometimes lasted until 6 or 7 a.m. at various members' homes.

She didn't explain the mechanics of how funds were collected through such parties, but commented:

"They would go to any means to raise money. They were very successful."

Alfred Nittle, counsel for the House Committee on Un-American Activities, asked "You mean, if the (Communist) party needed to raise money, they would tell members 'you're going to have a birthday?'" Mrs. Brown said yes.

Mrs. Brown also identified the program for a concert featuring singer Paul Robeson on May 6, 1962, in Cleveland, for the purpose of raising money for the campaign of Progressive party presidential candidate Vincent Hallinan.

Mrs. Brown, as she did Monday, named a long list of Clevelanders
she said she knew as Communists
while she was in the party.

In another facet of Monday's testimony, she said she couldn't attend Communist party meetings in her neighborhood in Cleveland
"because it was a Jim Crow club." Some Communists preach against race segregation but practice it, she said.

Mrs. Brown, testifying at the opening of hearings on Communist activity in the Cleveland area, said she was tricked into joining the Communist party in 1947. She thought then, she said, she was joining the Civil Rights Congress.

She quit the party in 1948 but soon rejoined at the FBI's request and remained a member until she moved to Los Angeles in 1960, Mrs. Brown said.

Segregation has been practiced by the party "and always has been since I have been a Communist," she said.

She said she once complained about it to Benjamin Davis, national secretary of the party and a Negro.

"He did not like it. But it still didn't do any good," she said.

Mrs. Brown named as Communists a long list of persons in Cleveland.

She said William and Elizabeth Cooper helped recruit her into the party.

In Cleveland, Elizabeth Cooper,
67, denied she is or ever was a Communist. Mrs. Brown was a neighbor, said Mrs. Cooper, "but I never talked to her about joining the Communist party. I am not in favor of what the party stands for."

Another named by Mrs. Brown as having been a Communist party member was Foster McCurdy.
McCurdy, brother of U.S. Atty.
Merle M. McCurdy of Cleveland, issued a statement in Cleveland.
"Fourteen years ago I had some interest in the Communist party.
I was not a member and never have been a member of the Communist party. Whatever interest I ever had in the Communist party vanished years ago," the statement said.

Merle McCurdy said whatever his brother did occurred years

Market Gains Profit-taking Skims Cream

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market held substantial gains early this afternoon. Profit-taking skipped the cream from a brisk rally in the morning as trading quieted after a vigorous start.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks at noon was up 1.90
to 221.20 with industrials up 2.80, rails up .50 and utilities up 1.10.

Gains of fractions to well over a point among key stocks were spread through various sections of the list.

The rise was strong from the opening, with the ticker tape running as much as four minutes behind transactions.

Wall Streeters ascribed the advance to an outgrowth of Tuesday's gyrations which had the signs of an attempt to build a solid base from which to rally.
Apparently, such a base was built, if only for a day.

In early afternoon the market had recouped about a third of Monday's sharp losses. Blue chips spurred 1 or 2 points along a broad front in the morning and early gains of several points were scored by some of the "growth" stocks. These advances were cut back in most cases and some gainers became losers.

As trading progressed, however, prices once again were improving.

IBM was up more than 4, AT&T wiped out a gain of more than a point, traded at a fractional net loss, then recovered.

All Big Three motors were up,
Chrysler by more than a point.
Major steels were up, Jones &

Fitness Film Shown at Reception

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — More than 80 school, church and government leaders saw a preview today of a 28-minute color film on youth physical fitness.

A copy of the film was presented to Gov. Orval E. Faubus after the preview in his reception room.

Faubus turned the print over to the Curtis Swaim, an Education Department official who heads the Arkansas Youth Fitness Committee.

Swaim said the state would have at least six prints of the film for showing to groups interested in youth fitness.

Faubus told the group attending the preview that Arkansas had been active in youth fitness work for about two years, before President Kennedy formed the National Youth Fitness Council and put nationwide emphasis on conditioning of young people.

The governor predicted the youth fitness program would be accelerated next year and in subsequent years.

The film shows progress of youth fitness programs in two schools—one at Muskogee, Okla., which had no program before Kennedy formed the Youth Fitness Council, and one at Kansas City which stepped up an existing program as a result of the President's interest.

Admits That Lee Mears Mentioned

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Gov. Orval E. Faubus said today that he has heard the name of Lee Reaves mentioned as a possible successor to Dr. Jack Mears as president of Arkansas A&M College at Monticello.

Reaves is dean of personnel at the school. Claude Babin, academic dean, has been named acting president. Mears resigned last month.

Faubus said he didn't expect to take a hand in selection of a president of the school, as he said he never had anything to do with the selection of any college presidents since he has been governor.

Faubus Was Not Endorsed by Painters

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Gov. Orval E. Faubus said today he had not been endorsed by the Arkansas Conference of Painters and he understood before he addressed the painters Saturday that the group would endorse no candidate.

A question about the endorsement arose Sunday when Kenneth Coffelt, one of five men opposing Faubus' fifth term bid, cancelled a speech to the painters and said the group had been discourteous to him by endorsing Faubus before he heard him.

Faubus read a copy of the painters' resolution to newsmen today. It said the group endorsed "past administrations of Orval E. Faubus as governor."

Representatives of the painters group have spent the past two days denying that Faubus was endorsed.

Coffelt then said that if the painters did not circulate the report about the endorsement, Faubus must have.

Faubus declined today to comment on this phase of the controversy, but he said with a laugh, "I'm not at all unhappy with the developments (publicity) about this endorsement."

On another matter, Faubus said he doubts if the state can send a state policeman to escort Miss Chick to the national Junior Chamber of Commerce convention in Las Vegas, Nev.

"If one organization gets such help, there might be any number requesting the same," Faubus said.

Col. Herman Lindsey, director of the State Police, said today that the department did not have a car free for such a trip.

Crumbling Cookie Case Under Study

By RAYMOND J. CROWLEY Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Space scientists gave high priority today to solving "the mystery of the crumbling cookies."

It's a culinary problem that must be licked before astronauts take off for the moon and Mars. Even a "weightless" spaceman has to eat. Malcolm Scott Carpenter—first American to munch on solid grub beyond the tug of gravity—reported sadly after his three-orbit flight May 24: "The cookies crumbled and the candy melted."

Just what it was that crumbled was still uncertain today. The Pillsbury Co. and the Nestle Co., Inc., which designed bite-size snacks to withstand the rigors of space flight, both expressed strong doubts that their snacks crumbled.

They acknowledged, however, that chocolate may have wilted, because the temperature in Carpenter's capsule was an unexpected 104 or 105 degrees.

Both companies said they are awaiting reports from the government on just what happened. They stand ready to pursue research to the hilt.

A Nestle representative made plain this is more "apologetic" labor of love than any "urge for profits."

"We do not expect food for astronauts to become a big-volume item," he said. "There are not enough customers."

"But we think it important to give spacemen something solid to chomp on, rather than imbibing baby food out of a tube, as John Glenn did."

Glenn, after his flight Feb. 20, hinted he could have "used a ham sandwich. But he warned against crumbly food like cake. Crumbs float around and can distract an astronaut who is doing 101 things, including looking out the window for fireflies."

So the two companies, at the behest of the authorities, put their best brains to work.

The Pillsbury snacks are three-quarter inch cubes, coated with an edible glaze. Carpenter took three kinds of Pillsbury snacks, composed of chocolate, figs and dates, and high protein cereal. In reserve, in case the authorities called for them, were many other varieties of tiny cubes, including compressed ham, cheese, roast beef and chicken.

The Nestle snacks are bon-bon shaped. They are composed of a vegetable fat base and non-fat milk solids, with delectable foods mixed in. Into Carpenter's capsule went three kinds—orange peel plus almonds, high protein cereal plus almonds and cereal plus raisins. Nestle's also prepared backup bon-bons, including one that tastes like bacon and eggs.

Carpenter's dinner pail was an opaque plastic bag. It may be that some snacks were damaged in packing, or that the bag banged against the capsule wall as the journey proceeded. Carpenter made one recommendation: that the bag be transparent, so a fellow could see crumbs inside and take steps to prevent them from escaping.

Dear Helen: You often stress a child's duty toward its parents, even when abandoned by them. I can't subscribe to this.

When I was three my mother and father divorced. She was left alone to rear my brother and me, my father having walked off without contributing a dime for our support. Never having been trained to earn a living, our poor mother was forced to take whatever work she could get; washing dishes in a cafeteria; wrapping packages in a department store; and finally, house mother at the charity day nursery where she packed us in our pre-school years.

But not once did she ever utter a single word against my father. To me he epitomized all that was brutal, selfish and evil. Once or twice he came back to see us kids. When we heard he was coming, we ran away. A cop found us but, since our father had left, we didn't care.

Why, after all those years, should we satisfy his curiosity about us? When he stood outside the door trying to talk to us, I shouted, "You're not our father and never were. We hate you!" How can you love, or even like, a person who never cared whether you lived or died?

Since then, our mother has remarried. To my brother and me, our stepfather is the only father we ever had.

If the man who calls himself my father were to return I would not feel it my duty to care for, or support him any more than I would a complete stranger, since that is what he is to me. —Unsigned

Dear Unsigned: I agree with you up to a point. We had a similar condition in my father's family; a husband who deserted his wife and four children. The little girl wiped him out of her consciousness. It was as if he had never existed.

The second of the three boys hated him with a hatred that was venomous. The youngest and oldest sons were more tolerant; the elder sending the father money whenever requested; the younger did what he could to keep track of his wandering parent. The oldest son died first, then the mother, and finally the father.

The youngest child, by that time grown and working, went to the far-off city where the father lived, if you could call it that, and saw that he was decently buried, paying for the funeral himself. The remaining brother and sister refused to contribute a cent. I've always felt that the two who did their duty by their father—even when not loving him, were the truly great members of that particular branch of our family.

Dear Helen: Six nice college boys and one fledgling professor room with us. Early this month the professor bought himself a straw hat. The boys did likewise; the same hat, one-half size smaller. All hang their hats on one banded against the capsule wall as the journey proceeded. Carpenter made one recommendation: that the bag be transparent, so a fellow could see crumbs inside and take steps to prevent them from escaping.

He is losing weight and rarely

Dear Helen: My husband will soon be retired, after which he intends to go into business for himself. The company for which he has worked these 25 years is giving him a farewell dinner. He is to speak and I, as his wife, will be called upon to say a few words. What to say worries me. Any suggestions? —Timid

Dear Timid: Say you're both glad and sorry; glad that your husband will be free to make certain dreams come true; sad at the closing of a happy chapter in his life and yours. Develop these thoughts in your own words. Let them down on a filing card and rehearse before a mirror. Try them out on friends. Every speech, however informal, should be carefully thought-out beforehand. Practice makes perfect.

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Kennedy, striking back in the battle for his medical care program, acidly challenged the American Medical Association today "to set the record straight" on its policy toward Social Security.

The White House made public a briskly worded letter from Kennedy to Dr. Leonard W. Larson, AMA president, in reply to a message Larson had addressed to the President late last month.

In his letter, Larson charged Kennedy with spreading the impression that the AMA once referred to the Social Security system as a "cruel hoax," and declared this was untrue.

Larson said the AMA never took a position on the Social Security system, never opposed it and even supported one section calling for extension of public health services.

Kennedy had declared a few days earlier at a news conference that the AMA was one of the chief opponents of Social Security in the 1930s.

In his letter to Larson, Kennedy cited actions he said were taken by the AMA in 1939, 1949 and 1953, all critical of Social Security.

"If your organization did not oppose Social Security before its enactment—only afterwards—I will be glad to point out this unique distinction at my next press conference," Kennedy said.

CHICAGO (AP)—The American Medical Association, answering President Kennedy's challenge to "set the record straight," says the King-Anderson medical care bill is not the AMA's on trial.

The exchange was the latest development in the administration-AMA dispute over a plan for medical care for the aged.

President Kennedy, in a letter to Dr. Leonard W. Larson, AMA president, cited past actions Kennedy said indicated the AMA's opposition to the Social Security system.

The President's letter Tuesday was in reply to a message Larson sent Kennedy last month charging the President had created the impression the AMA had called Social Security a "cruel hoax" and was among opponents of its enactment in the 1930s.

Larson's letter said, in part, "President Kennedy made the statement in his May 23 news conference that 'the AMA was one of the chief opponents of the Social Security system in the '30s'."

"This statement is false. The American Medical Association did not oppose enactment of the Social Security system, but what may have been said at some later time is extraneous to the accusation the President made on May 23."

"Furthermore, I want to emphasize that past history of the AMA has nothing to do with the merits of the King-Anderson bill."

"The King-Anderson bill is on trial, not the AMA."

Kennedy in his letter said if the AMA did not oppose Social Security before its enactment—only af-

One For My Dame

Chapter 33
My nose felt like a blossom of pain pinned on a cracked melon. I pushed off the sofa, stumbled over Vito's outstretched hand, and kept going. I plunged through the screen door with my head down, missed the top step, and galloped awkwardly down the next three.

Ginny was in a white convertible that had its top tucked away. The engine started and then roared.

As I hit the edge of the curb and tripped, she spun the wheel to pull that long, long car into a U-turn. I landed sprawled head first across the open cockpit. My chin hung over the left door and my feet were out kicking in orbit. I had knocked her hands from the wheel, but hadn't done a thing for her foot on the gas.

Then several things seemed to break loose at once. The blare of the horn, because I was folded onto it; the rocket ride we began with Ginny's foot staying shoved to the floor; and the encounter with a cornered bobcat.

I saw the tree coming when we jumped the curb across the street. Then somebody hit me in the side with a hammer.

They took me to Valley Receiving and that's where Lieutenant Geiser caught up with me when the dawn was coming up like a whimper.

It wasn't a satisfactory interview for either of us, because I kept going away from it and then coming back. But he got some of the coherent account from me of all the killings, and he did tell me that they had Ginny Hinton. Then he went away and I went to sleep, and when I awakened a nurse smiled gently with a hint of a tear in her eye. "Mr. Jackson, your father's here."

And Hannibal said, "Hello, son, how are you, boy?"

"Great," I said, "simply great."

"Four broken ribs," Hannibal said, "a couple of concussions, sundry abrasions, contusions, lacerations, and such; nothing serious at all, son. Reminds me of the time I was being Blackbeard at old Twentieth-Century and somebody dropped the mizzen mast."

"Carla," I said.

"She'll be all right," he said. "Don't know why I worried about you, boy. Not when you can pick them like that one."

The nurse stuck her head in the door. "Mr. Jackson," she whispered. It took me a moment to realize she wasn't speaking to me. Hannibal left quietly with just a firm squeeze for my shoulder, which was about the only place he could have squeezed without making me scream.

"Then I went away for a long time."

I saw several women, Miss Sanders and Miss Stilwell and Miss Minkler, who all got their outfits at the same place and wore dreadful white stockings. And there was a Dr. Hannig who said something about my X-rays, and a Dr. Mayes who said that what had happened to my nose should improve my looks, what with the cartilage they had had to remove, and finally there was a thin young man who ran a number of curious tests and thought I was under sedation when he said, "They sure beat up this poor, ugly son-of-a-gun."

Then things got better and they terward—he would point out "this unique distinction at my next press conference."

"On the other hand," Kennedy wrote, "if the AMA has never opposed Social Security, some questions may be asked in order to get the record straight."

Among Kennedy's questions were, "why the AMA in 1949 spat to all members of Congress a resolution approved by its House of Delegates calling Social Security a 'compulsory socialistic tax' and 'why the AMA House of Delegates declared in 1953 it had previously registered disapproval of the principle involved in Social Security'."

Secret Army Orders More Terrorism

By ANDREW BOROWIEC
ALGIERS (AP) — The Secret

Army Organization ordered a new wave of terror today but only two killings were reported. French officials interpreted this as a further sign of deep rifts and indecision.

A Moslem was shot down not far from the center of the city and the body of another Moslem was found in the Bouzahrach suburb but calm reigned in most parts of Algiers.

During the night, a police station and two buildings owned by Moslems were set afire. This was still far short of recent terrorist activity.

The secret army warned Monday night in a pirate radio broadcast that it was ending the five-day truce in terrorism but that it hoped for further contact with the Moslem nationalists.

French officials continued to hope for a "solution of reason and good sense." They believed the secret army was torn by indecision and deep ideological and leadership troubles. But no officials appeared to know exactly what was going on.

In contrast, fear began to sweep Algeria's European community anew. Most Europeans began to hope for a reasonable settlement that would safeguard their future in a Moslem-run Algeria.

Early this morning, crowds of Europeans besieged banks to withdraw their savings. Police stations and administrative buildings were crowded by men and women filing out repatriation documents and demanding passports. Long lines waited in front of shipping company offices.

Officials said plans were being prepared to swamp the European community with Moslem policemen, terrorism returns. So far, 75 Moslem auxiliary policemen are on active duty.

The secret army broadcast snail contacts with the Algerian nationalists so far were satisfactory but no agreements were reached because of "maneuvers" of French authorities.

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Kennedy will hold a news conference at 4 p.m. EDT Thursday. Press Secretary Pierre Salinger announced today.

Salinger said the news conference would be available for live broadcast by radio and television networks.

Newsman asked Salinger whether the fact that all of Kennedy's recent news conferences had been in the afternoon had any bearing on a desire not to influence stock market prices while trading was still being conducted.

Salinger replied that there was no relationship whatever between the news conference and the stock market.

Siebern and Rookie Lift Kansas City

By MIKE RATHET
Associated Press Sports Writer

Manny Jimenez, a rookie with one foot off the ground, and high-flying Norm Siebern have lifted the Kansas City Athletics right into the middle of that ever-lightening American League pennant scramble.

Jimenez and Siebern each got two hits Tuesday night as the A's knocked off Minnesota 4-3, dropping the Twins into fourth place and improving their own position by moving within two victories of the .500 mark.

Jimenez, who lifts his right foot when he swings in the manner of Mel Ott, came to the A's from Milwaukee in the trade that sent pitcher Bob Shaw to the Braves. He has been sensational. A double, driving in Siebern with the first run, and a single boosted his league-leading average to .366.

Siebern moved into seventh place among the AL's top hitters, stroking a double and homer for a .321 mark. He is first in runs batted in with 41. He also topped one in front of the plate that led to the winning run in the fifth inning.

Twins' starter Camilo Pascual failed to cover home as catcher Earl Battey tossed out Siebern and Bobby DelGreco, who had doubled, sped home with the clincher.

Only two other games were played as rain felled the other clubs. The Chicago White Sox whipped the Los Angeles Angels 9-5 and Baltimore edged Washington 6-5 in the first game of a scheduled two-night doubleheader. The second game was rained out.

In the National League, San Francisco thumped the Chicago Cubs 11-4. St. Louis nipped Cincinnati 10-9 in 11 innings. Houston defeated Milwaukee 7-1 and the Los Angeles Dodgers won the opener of a two-nighter with Pittsburgh 3-2. The nightcap was suspended by curfew after eight innings with the Dodgers leading 7-3. New York and Philadelphia were rained out.

Charlie Smith drove in four runs for the White Sox with three singles, snapping a 5-5 tie in the ninth as the Chicagoans broke loose for four runs to whip the Angels. The victory went to Don Zanni (3-2), the loss to Ryno Duran (2-4). Bo Belinsky was a surprise starter for Los Angeles, but left in the third after walking five, giving up four hits and three runs. Leon Wagner hit his 14th homer for the Angels.

The Orioles came from behind to win it on Whitney Herzog's two-run pinch-hit homer in the seventh inning off reliever Marty Kutyna (1-5). The Orioles built a 4-0 lead in the first inning on Jack Brabdt's two-run triple and a bases-loaded single by Charlie Lau. The Senators moved ahead on a pair of homers by Ken Reitzel and a three-run shot by Chuck Hinton. Herzog gave Billy Hoelt (1-3) the triumph.

TEMPLE OF THE SUN—The unusual structure in the foreground of photograph above houses the world's largest solar telescope, now nearing completion at Kitt Peak National Observatory, 40 miles southwest of Tucson, Ariz. The structure stands 110 feet high; the diagonal shaft is 480 feet long, 280 feet of it underground, as shown in diagram. Sunlight will be reflected from a heliostat (flat mirror) to parabolic mirrors inside the shaft and into the observation room. The telescope will have a focal length of 300 feet and will form images of the sun nearly a yard in diameter, which may either be photographed or directed into spectroscopes. The big instrument will permit studies of the sun in greater detail than has ever been possible. Domes of the observatory's 84-inch and 36-inch stellar telescopes are visible in the left background of the photograph.

White Oak Lake May Be Best of Them All

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

White Oak Lake isn't as well known as some of the state's other publicly owned fishing projects, but it may be the best of them all—at least from the standpoint of fish management.

Completed in 1960, the South-west Arkansas lake includes practically all the favorable qualities developed by the Game and Fish Commission in 10 years of building and managing public lakes.

White Oak Lake also has one feature which makes it unique in Arkansas. It actually is two lakes—which means its patrons enjoy an advantage.

The commission's fish management experts previously learned that periodic drawdowns were necessary to keep lakes in top fishing condition. Through this practice, undesirable species of fish are kept under control.

Drawdowns have their had features—chief of these being that most lakes are of little value to anglers during the drawdown period.

The architects of White Oak Lake thoughtfully considered this problem when they made their plans.

Instead of putting one dam across White Oak Creek, they built two. The lower section of the lake covers 1,645 acres; the upper has 1,031 acres.

Now when it's necessary, drawdowns can be conducted at separate times in each of the sections—always leaving one available to anglers.

Depth of the lakes is considered ideal for fish control—a maximum of 18 feet with an 8-foot average. This is believed shallow enough for good fish production but deep enough to hold down development of a quatic plants which might choke it up.

A cleared seining basin provides for easy removal of buffalo, drum, carp and other rough fish at times when drawdowns are necessary to keep a desirable population balance.

Boat trails were cleared in White Oak Lake in advance and all the brush and logs burned or removed. This now permits easy motoring to any part of the lake with little danger of capsizing or damaging outboard motors on submerged logs, tree tops or stumps.

Idea for the lake came when a federal land utilization area was turned over to the Game and Fish Commission. The lake site includes 1,145 acres of the original area plus an additional 1,500 acres purchased from private owners.

The lake, located in Ouachita and Nevada counties, primarily serves residents of an area including Camden, Prescott, Hope, Gurdon, Magnolia, El Dorado, Arkadelphia and Texarkana.

Stan Homers, Cards Win But Hurler Fined

By MIKE RATHET

Associated Press Sports Writer
Stan (The Man) Musial hit his 450th home run to put St. Louis back in the victory column. But Cardinal pitcher Ray Sadecki wound up on the losing side.

Minutes after Musial tagged No. 450 Tuesday night to give the Cards a 10-9, 11-inning triumph over Cincinnati that snapped an eight-game losing streak, turning St. Louis Manager Johnny Keane announced he was fining Sadecki $250 because "he goofed off."

The incensed Cardinal field boss said he levied the heavy fine on Sadecki "for the poorest exhibition of effort I have ever seen on a major league diamond. Every one out there was trying to win and he goofed off."

In the fifth inning, Sadecki faced five men, committed two errors, gave up two homers, allowed five runs and failed to retire a batter as the Reds pulled out to a 9-1 lead.

League-leading San Francisco blasted Chicago's Cubs 11-4 and maintained a two-game edge over runner-up Los Angeles. The Dodgers won the opener of their two-night doubleheader with Pittsburgh 3-2 and led 7-3 after eight innings when the nightcap was suspended by curfew. It'll be resumed tonight.

Houston belted Milwaukee 7-1 in the only other game played. The New York-Philadelphia game was rained out.

In the American League, the Chicago White Sox defeated the Los Angeles Angels 9-5. Kansas City edged Minnesota 4-3 and Baltimore nipped Washington 6-5 in the first game of a scheduled two-nighter. The second game was rained out as was the rest of the AL program.

Musial, who went 3-for-6 in pacing the Cardinal comeback and hiked his average to .326, also cut down Cookie Rojas at the plate with a perfect peg in the fourth inning.

Checked on three hits for five innings by Bob Purkey, the Cards finally pulled even in the seventh when Bill White hit a three-run homer and Ken Boyer smashed a two-run shot. It stayed knotted until Musial won it for reliever Lindy McDaniel (2-3) with his homer off Dave Sisler (2-2).

A five-run eighth inning uprising triggered by Felipe Alou's homer and an error by Cubs' shortstop Andre Rodgers gave the Giants their fifth triumph in a row and 12th in 13 games. After Alou homered and the next two batters walked, Rodgers dropped a line shot by Jose Pagan that could

The money looks too good to the big name pros.

By putting up the $100,000 jackpot—second only to the $109,000 plus in prize money given out at the Masters this year—and a top prize of $25,000, the Classic sponsors attracted virtually every prominent pro who is eligible.

Among them are Arnold Palmer, who has a chance here to break his own record for the largest amount of money won by a golfer in one season; Sam Snead, the greatest all-time money winner, and South Africa's Gary Player, who beat out Palmer for top money a year ago.

In 1960 Palmer won $75,262.85. So far this year, with six tournament victories, he is just below the $60,000 mark.

The Classic field is limited to 120 players, including a few hand-picked amateurs and about 20 non-touring pros from the New York metropolitan area who made it through special qualifying tests.

For most of them it figures to be a solid tune-up for the U.S. Open that follows. The two lines of the Upper Montclair course that are being used stretch out to 7,055 yards with a par of 72.

It was redesigned a few years ago by architect Robert Trent Jones, whose specialty is toughening courses for tournaments. The rough has grown up to form narrow hour glass-shaped fairways. The long hitters will have to keep their drives straight and several holes look easier than they really are.

Practice time is limited for a number of the tourists, who had to devote Tuesday to sectional qualifying for the U.S. Open. A $5,000 pro-celebrity preliminary was scheduled today.

Yanks Prove They're Not Supermen

By JACK HAND

Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Hope is busting out all over the American League now that the New York Yankees have been proven something less than supermen in the first third of the season.

In April anybody who didn't pick the Yankees as a shoo-in was rushed off to a psychiatric ward for an examination.

Mel McGaha, the congenial freshman manager of the Cleveland Indians, brought his club to town in a first-place tie with the Yanks. He isn't the least bit scared of the big bad Yanks. In fact, he thinks any of six clubs could take it all.

"The Yankees certainly are the team to beat," said McGaha after Tuesday night's game at Yankee Stadium was rained out. "But here we are, a third of the way home and no big spread yet."

"Minnesota has been scoring a lot of runs. Los Angeles has been getting better pitching than anybody expected. Baltimore is a dangerous club with Jim Gentile and Gus Triandos, when he gets dials. He went into today's game back. Detroit has tremendous speed and power. Chicago can have been a triple play. Doubles by Harvey Khenn and Willie Mays and Chuck Hiller's single followed. Billy O'Dell (7-3) won it with a five-hitter. Bob Budh (3-4) was the loser.

Willie Davis drove in two runs for the Dodgers in the opener against the Pirates with a homer and double and scored the clincher in the sixth on a single by Tommy Davis. Stan Williams (6-1) got the victory with 2-3 in-nings of no-hit relief by Larry Sherry. Earl Francis (2-3) lost it.

The seven-hit pitching of Bob Bruce (3-1) and a 13-hit attack won for the Colts. Al Spangler's lead off homer in the first inning set the pattern and charged Milwaukee starter Ron Piche with his first loss after three victories.
